Kids love to be nestled in the warmth of home . . .

Prairie River Home Care provides the at-home medical services and technology support needed to care for high-risk newborns and children with acute or chronic health needs.

As a parent, you not only gain peace of mind knowing your child is receiving top quality healthcare. You also gain time and energy to balance caring for your other children, going to work, and resuming the rhythm of family life.

Prairie River Home Care will work with you and your child's healthcare providers to design a personalized plan that's right for the whole family.

Pediatric Services at Home . . . So You Can Still Be a Family

Prairie River Home Care provides pediatric home health services for newborn infants, children, adolescents and young adults. We care for children who are challenged by developmental or behavioral disabilities as well as those with short- or long-term health needs including: cancer, diabetes, heart or respiratory conditions, cystic fibrosis, cerebral palsy, and muscular dystrophy.

When kids are ill or have special needs, it's hard on the whole family. Along with providing top-quality medical care, our experienced professionals offer support, understanding and just the right dose of tenderness to help everyone feel better.
